Numb. 5422

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Tuesday April 3. to Saturday April 7. 1716.

St. James's, April 6.

THE following Addreſs has been preſented to His Majeſty by Sir George Warrender, Bar. Repreſentative in Parliament for Edinburgh, introduced by the Right Honourable the Lord Viſcount Townſhend, One of His Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State.

To the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty.

Moſt Gracious Soveraign,

WE Your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal Subjects the Repreſentatives of the Royal Boroughs of North Britain, now aſſembled together at Edinburgh, moſt humbly beg Leave to congratulate You upon the great and glorious Succeſs of Your Arms under the Command of his Grace the Duke of Argyll; who, through the Bleſſing of God, has been an happy Inſtrument towards the putting an End to that unnatural Rebellion.

The many Benefits which we enjoy under Your Majeſty's Government, and the Proſpect which after Ages have from Your Royal Poſterity, cannot but engage us, and all Your Majeſty's loyal Subjects, to exert ourſelves to the utmoſt of our Power in Defence of Your ſacred Perſon and Government upon all Occaſions with our Lives and Fortunes.

When Your Majeſty's Enemies did appear very formidable in their Numbers, and did ſet on foot many artful and malicious Enterprizes againſt Your Royal Perſon and Government; yet the Providence of God was ſo ſignally obvious in behalf of Your Majeſty, that all theſe malicious and wicked Deſigns did prove abortive.

We will not preſume to trouble Your Majeſty with the detale of theſe remarkable Steps which happened during the Continuance of the Rebellion, they being ſufficiently made known to Your Majeſty by the proper Perſons: But we beg Leave to ſay, that the prudent and valorous Appearance of Your Majeſty's Forces under the Influence and Conduct of that Noble Perſon Your General, and theſe Events which followed thereupon, will certainly be remembred to Poſterity; and muſt determine them as well as us to ſay, That this is the Doing of the Lord, and marvellous in our Eyes.

Permit us, therefore, Great Sir, to think, though Your Royal Anceſtors had the Glory of Eſtabliſhing our Reformation, it hath been reſerved to Your Majeſty to Redeem Your People from their juſt Fears and Apprehenſions of being brought under the inſupportable Yoke of Popery and Slavery.

May God preſerve Your Majeſty and Your Royal Iſſue from all Your open and ſecret Enemies; and, after a long and proſperous Reign, that we may never want one of Your Royal Line to be the Prince of Your People, and the Guardian of the Proteſtant Religion, are the earneſt Prayers of,

May it pleaſe Your Majeſty,
Your Majeſty's moſt Dutiful, moſt Faithful, and Obedient Subjects and Servants.

Signed in Name and in Preſence of the Convention by John Campbel, Lord-Provoſt of Edinburgh, their Preſes.

To the KING.

The humble Addreſs of the Lord Provoſt, Magiſtrates and Town-Council of Edinburgh.

May it pleaſe Your Majeſty,

HEARTS freighted with Joy, muſt expreſs their Gladneſs; Men relieved from the Brink of Deſtruction, cannot help teſtifying their ſincere Pleaſure; no more can we Your Majeſty's faithful Subjects, pluck'd from the Jaws of Tyranny and Oppreſſion by the Gallantry of Your Troops, led by Your Victorious General, hinder ourſelves from proclaiming our Happineſs, and congratulating with our King, upon His Triumphs over Treaſon and Rebellion.

Your Majeſty's peaceable Acceſſion to Your fated Throne had lull'd us into Security, and fill'd our Minds with pleaſing Proſpects of laſting Happineſs and Tranquility under Your auſpicious Government, when unexpected the dire Rebellion burſt forth, amazing Your Majeſty's beſt Subjects, who could not know the Extent of the pernicious Treaſon, and who ſaw ſo weak a Force to repel it.

In this univerſal Conſternation, Providence and the Wiſdom of our King, ſent His intrepid General amongſt us, whoſe Preſence and Example ſoon diſſipated our Fears, call'd forth to the Defence of their Liberties thoſe whom the Common Danger formerly could not, and ſpirited up to Action every faithful Subject.

Allow us, Great Sir, to talk thus warmly of his Grace the Duke of Argyll, to whom, in particular, our City owes its Safety from Rapine and Deſtruction: When Multitudes of Rebels threatned Your Troops at Stirling, we ſaw him alarm'd with our Danger from the inſolent Traytors, who march'd towards us; we ſaw him with incredible Celerity ſteal a March for our Preſervation: And when by his his surprizing Expedition he had chas'd the Enemy from our Gates, we saw his restless Vigilance carry him back in time to Stirling to baffle the Rebels Purposes, and drive them to their former Quarters.

Amidst the numerous Mischiefs which attended the late pernicious Rebellion, we find one Cause of Joy: It is, that we hope we have approved our Loyalty and Duty to the Best of Kings; and that by so doing, Your Majesty will credit us when we declare, that with Lives and Fortunes we ever will defend that Constitution whereby our Religion and Liberties are inseparably linked with the Maintenance of our Protestant Soveraign and His illustrious Family upon the Throne. We are,

Edinburgh, March 27. 1716.
